Guest performances:

Pillowfort Theatre (Republic of South Africa): PATCHWORK

Patchwork unfolds around a bed: the place where the comfort of home meets the strange world of dreams... Pillows become creatures learning to fly, a sheet dances with a life of its own, a teddy and a lamp make best friends, and the proverbial cow jumps over the moon (as do the sheep and the dinosaur)! The story is told through the languages of physical theatre, puppetry and live music.

For ages 1 to 4

Duration: 45 minutes

Rijeka Puppet Theatre (Croatia): Wanda Lavanda

The main character of the story is Wanda, the sheep, which, because of its colorful wool, stands out among other animals, and with its unusual appearance deviates from their surroundings and their friends.

Although her specialty stands out from the meadow on which she lives, over time she begins to realize that this is not her fault but an advantage. This is a story about tolerance and the appreciation of diversity that will help children from the earliest age to learn the importance of accepting something different. "Wanda Lavanda" combines modern and contemporary contents with traditional features.

For ages 3+

Duration: 45 minutes

Ljubljana Puppet Theatre (Slovenia): Somewhere Else

Somewhere Else is a performance with a topic that is usually not easy to speak about. It tells us about a little Girl, who finds herself in the heart of war. Threatening planes are flying over the city, the streets are empty, and there is no food left on the shelves in the store. The school is closed. And every now and then gunshots are heard nearby. Her environment has gradually changed. It became intolerable. The Girl dreams of leaving to the countryside, where she could have a better life. She wants to go somewhere else, far away from the horrors of war.

For ages 7+

Duration: 45 minutes

Teatro O Bando (Palmela, Portugal) - Théâtre Massalia and Collectif Le Nomade Village (Marseille, France): This is (not) Europe

If Europe is a car, how do we drive it? Actors, musicians and dancers reflect on the different paths taken by Europe. They explore its advances and setbacks, accelerations and major slips, accidents and damage, small falls and victories on this winding contemporary journey.

For ages 14+

Duration: 60 minutes

In the course of the Showcase, we celebrate the international Small Size Days in Kolibri Fészek with two performances: Wiggler on January 28 and Kippkopp and Tipptopp on January 29.
